TRACY HOLLAND NAMED NMMC'S AUGUST EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH

TUPELO, Miss.—Tracy Holland, medical technologist with the Pathology Department, was named North Mississippi Medical Center's Employee of the Month for August.

Holland, lead medical technologist in the Core Lab, has been with NMMC since 1995.

She is a graduate of Shannon High School and earned a bachelor's degree from Blue Mountain College. Holland is a graduate of NMMC's Medical Technology Program.

"My job has given me a great amount of self-gratification to be able to help those around me in my daily activities," Holland said. "Technology within the laboratory is constantly changing, and I enjoy learning new things."

In her nomination, coworkers emphasized Holland's unselfishness and strong work ethic.

"Tracy is a wonderful asset to the Pathology Department," Toni Taylor, assistant administrative director of the Pathology Department, wrote in Holland's nomination. "You can always rest assured that Tracy will accomplish any assigned task in not only a very thorough but also a very timely manner. She takes personal responsibility for whatever she does and holds herself personally accountable for the quality of her work."

"Tracy is one of the most dedicated employees in the laboratory," another coworker wrote in her nomination. "She is never idle, is the last to leave and always willing to help others."

She and her husband Eric Holland have been married 14 years and reside in Fulton. The couple has two children—Callie, 10, and Sam, 6. The family attends Fulton Freewill Baptist Church.
