TUPELO, Miss.—Graduates of the recent Journey to Success class are (clockwise from top center) Katina O’Neal of North Mississippi Medical Clinics, Linda Michael of North Mississippi Medical Center’s Radiology Department, Karen Medlock of NMMC Home Health and Hospice, Amanda Lee Michael of NMMC’s Nursing Support Department, Peggy Woods of the City of Tupelo’s Planning Department, Debbie Hargrove of NMMC-West Point and Shelia Jinkins of the NMMC Cancer Center. Other graduates were Candy Boutwell of Baldwyn Nursing Facility, Allison Smith of Lowndes Medical Clinic in Columbus and Debbie Gipson of NMMC’s Education Department. The three-month session was sponsored by New Expectations for Women in Mississippi (NEWMS) and North Mississippi Medical Center’s Spirit of Women initiative. The women participated in six sessions related to personal and professional development, including interpersonal relationships, work/life balance, professional etiquette and communication, budgeting, professional attire and goal setting. Each participant was also assigned a NEWMS member as a mentor. For more information about Journey to Success, call Martha Swindle at (662) 823-4332.
